

Religion and Value Pluralism
Key Referate Abstract – Regina Polak

The topic of "Value pluralism" is one of the most complex scientific agenda - and it is also one of the most sensible ones from a political point of view. The Research-data within this subarea enable the REVACERN-Project to give an insight how people and societies in CCE-region construct their values, especially religious values within value diversity. To do this in an academically professional and politically responsible way it is necessary to embed the subarea-topics into the recent academic and public discussions on Values. This referate discusses the subarea-papers within the horizon of these challenges and develops questions, perspectives and methodological consequences how the underlying researchdata of the subarea-papers can be brought together in a helpful way for the whole REVACERN-Project.
